

Dr Thomas Sotiropoulos is currently a research director at the Institute of Plant Breeding and Genetic Resources – Department of Deciduous Fruit Trees in Naoussa, Greece of the Hellenic Agricultural Organization-DIMITRA.

His main interests include research on plant nutrition-fertilization as well as cultivar breeding and evaluation of pome fruit trees. He received a Bachelor of Science in Agriculture at the Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece in 1993, a MSc in Plant Breeding and Plant Physiology in 1996 and a PhD from the same University in 1999. He has participated in several national and European research projects. To date, he has been a co-author of two books in English, of two educational manuals for growers, of 74 scientific papers in international referred journals, of 48 papers in International Conferences, of 52 papers in Hellenic Conferences, of 43 papers in national journals, and tenths of articles in newspapers and websites.